MUSIC LOVERS ARE ENTERTAINED BY RECITAL BY MISS LA COSTA'S TROUP

HE LACOSTA regital, "A Day in June," the first cycle in a series of recitals given under the auspices of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, was enjoyed by a large audience in the First Christian church on Monday night.

on Monday night.

Mile. Lacosta was assisted by Miss Mabel Woodbury, violinist; Miss Miriam Larkin, harplet, and Miss Curtis Mac-Adams, planist. The first cycle, "At Daybreak," which was interpreted on Monday night by the artists, was well given. Miss Woodbury made a few introductory remarks on "A word concerning the spirit of this rectial." She said it was their desire to interpret "Daybreak," the time when man feels not only a bodily awakening, but also an awakening of the soul, with music full of buoyancy and light heartedness; not of sadness and pathos.

The program was well chosen and

The program was well chosen and varied as to composers. Mile Lacosta has a soprano voice of large range which is most pleasing and very sweet, but lacks in rich quality and in sustaining powers. The two most delightful numbers on the program rendered by Mile Lacosta were probable the "Bird Song," from Pagliacci, by Leonecavallo, and "A Sea Song," by Barry.

Miss Woodbury volvists played ar-

"Bird Song," from Pagliacci, by Leon-cavallo, and "A Sea Song," by Barry.

Miss Woodbury, violinist, played artistically, especially in the "Glpsy Dance," by Sarasate. Miss Curtis Mac-Adams, the planist, proved berself an excellent accompanist and soloist.

Miss Larkin, as harpist, rendered most delightful music; her interpretations being artistic and soulful. "Salutation," by Parish-Aivars, and "Inspiration," by Parish-Aivars, and "Inspiration," by Parish-Aivars, and "Inspiration," by Hasselmans, were both given on the harp particularly well by Miss Larkin. There was keen disappointment in the fact that all encores were forbidden.

This afternoon the same company of artists, will render "Noon" in the second cycle, and tonight, "Dreams."

They will all be given at the First Christian church under the auspices of the U. D. C.

Mile Lacosta is Miss Lathrop in real life, and is a sister of A. L. Lathrop, assitant to the vice president of the Mexico North Western railroad and affiliated Pearson interests in the southwest. Miss Lathrop is a native Chicago girl and received her preliminary musical sducation there, later atudying in Berlin and other musical centers on the continent. While here, Mr. and Mrs. Lathrop entertained the talented musician at their home in Morningside.
